3,000 years of Greek words and sounds – The journey of Greek song from antiquity to the present day

A special musical performance, dedicated to the journey of Greek song from antiquity to the present day, will present to the audience the unique relationship of the Greek word to musical expression throughout the centuries.

The journey begins in antiquity and Byzantium, leads through folk song (Dimotiko) and the musical tradition of more recent times, encounters the Kantada, the operetta, the National School and the light song (Elafros), continues with Rembetiko and Archontorembetiko, reaches the artful folk song (Entechno Laiko), Greek cinema, the new wave (Neo Kyma) and ends with contemporary musical works.

Through songs, short narratives and musical images, the uninterrupted continuity of Greek culture and the timeless convergence of word and sound, which is the special characteristic of Greek song, are highlighted.

A musical journey spanning 3,000 years, full of memories, emotions, and melodies that continue to connect us.
